

IFHP World Congress Gothenburg 2012 – Call for papers

- Inclusive Cities in a Global World -

IFHP and the City of Gothenburg invite practitioners and researchers to present innovative practice and novel research that can contribute with knowledge on challenges and problems, as well as potential solutions, embedded in the main theme of the congress: Inclusive Cities in a Global World. Presentations will take place at seminars arranged in connection to study visits and the audience will be a mix of people from urban planning and housing practice, business, local communities, and research. (Language English)

The papers may concern either approaches, methods and tools for planners, developers and other actors in urban development processes that can counteract social segregation and exclusion in cities. Or innovative urban development or housing projects where these issues are intentionally addressed.

Students, researchers and professionals can also be selected and invited for poster presentations, to be exhibited at the congress venue.

Deadline for the submission of abstracts (maximum one A4) is the 1st of February 2012.
