URBAN PROTOCOLS

The 2015 'Urban Protocols' global agenda seeks specific strategies for constructing our future cities. The agenda questions urban planning methodologies, proposing new priorities towards the next phase of our urban and suburban territories.

The Global Summer School (GSS) is a platform defined by ambitious, multiscalar investigation into the implications of emergent techniques on our planned environments. Each year GSS connects international teams located in key cities around the globe that explore a common agenda proposing solutions that are deeply embedded in diverse local conditions.
